- Create a user account with the following attribute
    - username: islam
    - Fullname/comment: Islam Askar
    - Password: islam
- Create a user account with the following attribute
  Username: baduser
  Full name/comment: Bad User
  Password: baduser
- Create a supplementary (Secondary) group called pgroup with group ID of 30000
- Create a supplementary group called badgroup
- Add islam user to the pgroup group as a supplementary group
- Modify the password of islam's account to password
- Modify islam's account so the password expires after 30 days
- Lock bad user account so he can't log in
- Delete bad user account
- Create a folder called myteam in your home directory and change its permissions to read only for the owner.
- Log out and log in by another user
- Try to access (by cd command) the folder (myteam)
- Make a copy of /etc/passwd file and name it oldpasswd and Change the permissions of oldpasswd file to give owner read and write permissions and for group write and execute and execute only for the others (using chmod in 2 different ways)
- Create a file with permission 444. Try to edit in it and to remove it? Note what happened
- Create a Bash shell alias named ls for the "ls –l" command
- How can you list the value of a specific variable?
- List all of the environment variables for the bash shell.
- Print all users home directory on your system and sort them alphabetically